Tactical Response to Domestic Violence

There is no arguing that domestic violence, in its different forms, takes a tremendous toll on its victims and society. As a responding officer who has to handle the call, you must take into consideration the protection of the victim, the arrest of the offender, and the methodology to break the cycle of violence while maximizing your safety. The Government Training Institute's new Tactical Response to Domestic Violence class, is a two day curriculum, which will give the officer proven tactics, techniques, and procedures to deal with DV calls for service. The class consists of four hours of lecture time and a day and a half of practical exercises involving Simunition training.

Tactical Response to Terrorism

This is an extremely fast paced and demanding five day class that focuses on the threat of terrorism, a major challenge facing federal, state, and local law enforcement officers, Department of Defense Personnel and those responsible for Force Protection. Tactical Response to Terrorism is a course designed for the frontline, developed from the identification of critical need factors facing U.S. Law Enforcement. This course was designed for the patrol officer, however small Special Team Units have given this course, high evaluations. In light of a POST 9/11 world, skill sets for U.S. Law Enforcement requirements have changed. This Immediate Action, Counter Assault course takes the student through real life application and familiarization of the possible response.

About Government Training Institute (GTI)

Joint Operatinos Center Government Training Institute (GTI) was founded in 2003 to address the needs of law enforcement and government agencies throughout the United States with research based training. GTI's courses contain a cooperative curriculum base and ongoing research from the staff with 100 years of operational military and law enforcement experience.

GTI's Center of Excellence (COE) is located in Denmark, South Carolina and is situated on 44 acres, which includes 22 acres of wooded ground attached to the primary training facility. GTI's 196,000 sq. ft. Denmark complex includes administrative offices, classrooms, indoor simulation area for close quarter battle, video fire arms simulator, and much more. Approximately 17 miles from the center of excellence is GTI's Joint Operation Center (JOC), a 300,000 square foot nuclear fuel reprocessing station on over 100 acres that GTI has converted into a special operations forces training center.

GTI is a registered trading partner with the federal government and accepts contracts from government agencies and all branches of the military. Both of GTI's facilities, Joint Operations Center (JOC) & Center of Excellence (COE) are available for your private training needs. These facilities are available on a daily, weekly or monthly basis. GTI believes our competencies are aligned with current and future needs of our customers security priorities. These competencies also address facilities and/or training that enhance city, county, state and federal government services.
